HUNDREDS ATTEND TALMADGE'S MEET

COURT HOUSE OVERRUN WITH FARMERS FROM BULLOCH AND SURROUNDING COUNTIES.

The largest crowd possibly ever seen at a farmers' meeting in Bulloch county overran the court house last Saturday morning to hear the address of Hon. Eugene Talmadge, state commissioner of agriculture, on the proposal of Governor Long, of Louisiana, to outlaw cotton for next year. Not only was the court house crowded, but many were unable to gain entrance. Hundreds stood around the walls and in the aisles. Many of those present were from neighboring counties.

Hon. Oscar Wall, legislator from Putnam county, was with the commissioner, and preceded him with a brief address. Mr. Wall was presented by Hon. A. M. Deal, R. Lee Moore presented Commissioner Talmadge, who spoke for thirty minutes or longer. Before the close of the meeting petitions circulated throughout the crowd, endorsing the Long plan, were signed by more than five hundred of those present.

The gist of Commissioner Talmadge's address was as follows: "Last week I wrote an article explaining the condition of the farmers and the business houses of the south that were depending upon making a living and financing themselves out of 5-cent cotton.

"In last week's issue of the Bulletin I suggested to the farmers not to gin their cotton at present prices of lint and seed. I repeat this suggestion in this week's issue, and will explain to you fully why I think that you should certainly discontinue ginning your cotton for the present.

"Last Friday, August 24, a convention of the governors and representatives of the south met at the Statesboro hotel. The delegates from the south were represented by Mr. Wall, legislator from Putnam county, and preceded him with a brief address. Mr. Wall was presented by Hon. A. M. Deal, R. Lee Moore presented Commissioner Talmadge, who spoke for thirty minutes or longer. Filling all the requirements for standard, accrediting and equipped with a philosophical optimism approach that of Browning, the faculty begins the next scholastic year eagerly. Laying aside consideration of the "filthy lucre" that makes the proverbial animal go, there are future citizens to be inspired, there are ideals to be striven for, and there is duty to be performed. We are ready! "Can any good come from this thing? Come and see!"

HOG SALE

The first co-operative hog sale this season will be held at the Central of Georgia pens on Tuesday, September 8th. All hogs should be at the pens by noon. The price of hogs this fall may be very disappointing. They are cheap to start with and are very likely to go lower. Would advise everybody who has top hogs to sell them now, and sell wherever you can get the best price. It is very likely that sales will be held every two weeks.

SCHOOLS OF CITY OPEN WEDNESDAY

BRIEF EXERCISES MARK OPENING EXERCISES IN GRAMMAR AND HIGH SCHOOLS.

Statesboro's public schools began the fall term Wednesday with a great send-off. Exercises at the grammar school building at 9 o'clock and at the high school building at 10 o'clock fittingly marked the occasion.

At the grammar school Rev. E. F. Morgan conducted the devotional and made a brief talk. Following him Guy Wells, of the Teachers College, spoke briefly. Fred T. Lanier, chairman of the city school board, also responded in a short talk. Superintendent R. M. Monte made his announcements and the exercises had ended within an hour.

At the high school auditorium the devotional was conducted by Rev. J. D. Peebles. Mayor J. L. Renfro followed with a stirring talk and he was followed by Mr. Lanier, who addressed the school students in a rather pointed appeal for personal endeavor. Superintendent Monte also spoke to these students in a vigorous manner.

No statement of the enrollment is obtainable, however it is apparent that there will be no decrease from last year's enrollment.

Very few changes have been made in the faculty personnel in either of the schools.

PARKER WARM IN PRAISE OF LOVETT

NOMINEE IN HAPPY FRAME OF MIND AS CONVENTION MEETS TO DECLARE RESULTS.

"As brilliant as the noonday sun, as true as steel and as firm as the rock of Gibraltar," were the words Homer C. Parker, applied to Judge Arch Lovett at the outset of his speech of acceptance of the nomination for congress here Friday. And the assembled friends of the nominee applauded.

"As an individual I was intensely partisan, but as chairman of the congressional committee I had no choice," were the words of Judge Lovett in response.

This passage of words occurred toward the close of the convention which nominated Gen. Parker for congress. Judge Lovett presided throughout the proceedings, asked for the roll call of delegates, then directed the secretary to read the official returns from the counties of the district, which was followed by the formal declaration of the results.

Every county in the district, except Tattall, was represented either by regular committeemen, or proxies. Those present in person were W. H. Dell Anderson, Bulloch; S. A. Jones, Burke; A. J. Bird, Candler; A. B. Lovett, Chatham; E. E. Sowell, Effingham; Mack Perkins, Jenkins; Melville Price, Long; By proxies were Dan B. Warrnell, Bryan; W. L. Edwards, Evans; Floyd E. Miller, Liberty; represented by Maj. J. B. Frazier, Gen. Cain, McIntosh, represented by T. Middleton Davis, Mrs. Grace Kitter and J. J. Griffin, Screven represented by Judge Lovett.

Mayor J. L. Renfro informally called the convention to order and made a brief address in which he expressed appreciation to the district for the honor which was being done a citizen of Statesboro. His words were kindly. "We are not gloating over others, but do rejoice at the success of our fellow townsmen," he said.

Gen. Parker, after being presented by Judge Lovett, began informally his expression of appreciation of Judge Lovett as already quoted. He followed this with informal words of appreciation of his homefolks and friends throughout the district. Reviewing his life, he said:

SUMNER SLAYS DURDEN AT CHURCH NEAR NORRISTOWN FOLLOWING DISPUTE.

Dublin, Ga., Aug. 31.—Hoke Sumner, 21, of Norristown, is in the Swainsboro jail today following his capture in the early hours of the morning in the Ochopee river swamp by Deputy Sheriff Charles Bell, of Emanuel county. Sumner is charged with the fatal shooting of H. S. Durden, 20, as the result of an alleged love quarrel.

Bascom Sumner, cousin of Hoke, is in the Dublin clinic here with a shattered arm, being an innocent victim of the gunplay last night, at the Norristown Methodist church, where Durden fell dead with five pistol bullets in his back.

The shooting occurred just as services closed at the church, Sumner and Durden were at the church, as well as the young lady over whom the shooting is said to have occurred, an eye witness said.

Sumner's sister, Miss Cuba Sumner, and another young man were said to have been sitting in their car and Durden standing beside it when Hoke Sumner is alleged to have drawn a pistol and started shooting. One of Durden's arms was broken through and shattered the arm of Bascom Sumner, who was also standing beside the car.

After the shooting, the car in which

MUST RESPECT LAW OR PAY CASH FINE

FISHER AND MARBY EACH ARE GIVEN LESSON IN MAYOR'S COURT MONDAY.

Failure to properly respect the law is an offense which will not be tolerated in Statesboro. This lesson was taught to Homer Fisher and Marvin Marby, both colored automobile drivers, in Mayor Renfro's court Monday morning.

And when the charge of ignoring the law was made against these two men it was literal in each case, and not figurative (it was figurative, however, when Mayor Renfro finished his sentences).

Homer Fisher was driving a big Buick passenger car on East Main street Saturday afternoon. He had come to Savannah, he said, hunting cotton pickers, and had about three of them in his car as he swung up the street at a moderate gait. He apied Corner Scribes in his little one-lung alley, but the corner did not stop him. Fisher said he attempted to pull on his brakes as the high officer swung into the street in front of him, and Fisher's foot missed the brake, he said, and struck the accelerator. His car jumped past the corner so close and with such speed that the officer's hair stood straight up all over the top of his head. Fisher's car ran into a ditch and burst two tires, so the mayor let him off with a fine of $5. So Fisher's offense against the law was both literal and figurative.

(45) Fisher assured the mayor that hereafter he would let his car walk through the streets of Statesboro.

Sunday morning Marvin Marby, employed as a finisher on the street paving, overstepped himself. It was his job to pour a coat of liquid seal over the work of the day before. When he remembered his duty, he was already past due on the job. So he jumped into his Ford and sped down East Main street with such alacrity that he almost collided with Sheriff Tillman, a pedestrian on the street. The sheriff's hat stood up exactly like the coroner's had the afternoon before. So a case was also made against Marvin charging him with failure to respect the law. Sheriff Tillman is as much the law as Coroner Scribes is, to be sure.

In mayor's court Monday morning the literal charge against Marvin was made figurative ($7.50), by Mayor Renfro. Next time he goes to work he's going to start a little earlier so he won't have to ride so fast.

In the meantime the law must be respected. And fortunately enough both these men had jobs and were able to pay their fines. If they had not had jobs, they probably would not have been in such a hurry.

BROOKLET SCHOOL OPEN NEXT FRIDAY

ENROLLMENT WILL BE FRIDAY IN ORDER TO GET PUPILS PREPARED FOR CLASSES MONDAY.

Brooklet, Ga., Sept. 2.—The board of trustees of the Brooklet High School announce that the formal opening of the school will be Friday, Sept. 11th, at 9 o'clock.

This day will be for registration and matriculation of pupils. The board is urging every patron of the district, together with all persons interested in educating the youth of our community, to be present on that day.

In the face of the present financial crisis, the school is to begin, but it is necessary for every patron in the school district to be present to acquaint himself with the conditions of the school.

Nowhere in Georgia can be found a community with more promising boys and girls, and with parents who have stood for educating these youths than in the Brooklet school district. This is verified by the superior attendance record this school has made in the past; and by the large number of boys and girls who have attended college after finishing high school.

With a past record like this, the board of trustees and Supt. E. W. Graham are expecting a loyal support from the citizens of the town and community by being present on the opening day, Sept. 11th.

The faculty is composed largely of teachers who have taught here before and been found excellent. The four new teachers come highly recommended and thoroughly qualified to fill the places for which they have been elected.

The town and community are delighted over the expression department that has been added to the school this year. Miss Ouida Bryan, who has charge of this department, has taken the Bureau oratory course at Brenau College and has shown exceptional talent in that line. Miss Bryan will teach expression two days out of each week at Pembroke.

It will be of interest to the patrons to know the entrance fees in the school have been reduced in all the grades, thereby encouraging all pupils to enter on the first day. The success of this year's school financially and otherwise will in a very large measure depend on the support of the good people of this district. It must not fail. Let's say it will not fail.

The faculty just completed is as follows:

Superintendent and vocational—E. W. Graham.

Latin and other high school work—Mrs. John A. Robertson.

English—Mrs. E. W. Hughes.

EGYPT WOULD AID COTTON GROWERS

SUGGESTS CALLING INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE TO STUDY COTTON INDUSTRY.

Washington, Aug. 23.—An international effort to aid the depressed cotton industry was suggested while consideration of various domestic measures moved forward today.

Through the state department came word that the Egyptian government had suggested an international conference to study the problem of over-production. A letter proposing the conference was said to be en route from Cairo.

Egypt is a large producer of long staple cotton.

Governor Huey Long's drastic bid to forbid all cotton production next year was ready for action by Louisiana senators at Baton Rouge. It was passed yesterday by the lower house.

Another plan for restriction of production was to be discussed with the farm board by a group of southern senators. This plan, of Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, calls on the board to pay 12 cents a pound for this year's crop for farmers who will agree not to plant any cotton next year.

George invited senators from nine states to join him in consulting the farm board.

PAVING FINISHED ON EAST MAIN ST.

POURING OF CONCRETE WAS BEGUN WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON ON NORTH MAIN.

It won't be long now till Statesboro will be actually tied to the balance of the world, east and west, by a ribbon of concrete.

At 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the paving on Savannah avenue from the city limits to the end of the city paving at the Central railroad tracks, was completed. The same afternoon the paving machinery was moved to North Main street and at noon Wednesday the pouring of concrete was begun at the city limits on the Moore road. Today this work is progressing rapidly, and it is assured that by the middle of next week the paving job will be completed so far as the existing contracts are concerned.

The paving on Savannah avenue required exactly six days, which may be considered a fast job when it is borne in mind that the roadway is thirty-three feet in width with curbing and street intersections added. The spreading of the concrete was done by hand, since the standard road equipment, running on rails, is too narrow for use on a job of that width.

The job now in progress at the other end of the city will be more speedy, since practically half the distance, to the intersection of Parkfield and North Main streets, is only 20 feet wide and is being leveled by machinery. North Main, however, will be done by hand, since the paving will be thirty-three feet.

In the meantime there is some speculation looking to possible paving on South Main street to the Teachers College. At the recent session of the legislature a resolution was enacted into law directing the highway department to do this work. The plan is the same as that which is now in progress for the city to join the highway department and make the paving full width on South Main street at least as far as the Central railroad tracks and twenty feet from there to the college. So far no definite date has been set for the beginning of this work, though the measure has received the signature of the governor and is now a law. It is certain, however, that very shortly there will be paving in progress on South Main street as far as the Teachers College.

shall apply promptly to the ordinary so that settlement may be made with the state.

TOBACCO MARKET COMES TO A CLOSE

STATESBORO RANKS SECOND IN VOLUME OF MARKETS EAST OF ALTAHAMA RIVER.

With a total of 1,812,582 pounds of first-hand sales, Statesboro tobacco market closed Friday afternoon. The record for quantity is little more than half of last year's record, when the total was almost three and one-half million pounds. This record, however, is on a parity with the record for the state, since the sales for the present season totaled only 57,895,929 for the state as compared with 106,402,561 for the same period last year. Statesboro's market for the season, taken from the sworn figures submitted to the Department of Agriculture, Atlanta, was by weeks in pounds as follows:

Week	Farmers	Holt-Cobb	Total
First	125,892	75,364	201,256
Second	86,006	160,880	246,886
Third	134,086	223,692	357,778
Fourth	151,550	155,550	307,100
Fifth	215,618	300,018	515,636

Total ... 739,778 1,073,304 1,812,582

This record places Statesboro second in volume of tobacco sold by markets east of the Altamaha, the four markets running as follows:

Claxton	Statesboro	Vidalia	Total
1,499,112	1,713,592	1,812,582	3,329,294

During the past season Statesboro's weekly average price was ahead of Claxton three times out of five weeks; was ahead of Vidalia four weeks out of five, and ahead of Metter five times out of five. Statesboro also during the last week exceeded in volume eight markets—Adel, Cairo Claxton, Haholchert, Metter, Nashville, Quitman and Waycross, and in price she led Adel, Metter, Nashville, Valdosta and Quitman.

tives of governors and farmers generally from all of the cotton-growing states of the South except Virginia, met in New Orleans. This convention was called by Governor and United States Senator Huey P. Long to devise some plan for a fair price for cotton.

There were over 2,000 representatives at this convention. United senators and congressmen and federal and state judges were as thick as flies around a bush joint.

"There were at least a thousand different plans suggested. Some had plans of limiting the cotton acreage to a certain per cent of this year's acreage. Some had plans of taxing cotton so much per bale or so much per acre, hoping to hold the cotton production down in this way. Some had plans for the federal farm board to give so much for cotton now and so much for cotton later. Hundreds had plans to call on congress to do something about it and see that the south got a proper price for cotton."

"We all agreed that it was useless to call on congress to do anything for the cotton farmer of the south, for the simple reason that congress is not the majority of any meeting and never has been and never will be."

"Legislation cannot defeat the laws of supply and demand."

"What would a big manufacturing plant do if it had more automobiles already made than it could sell? What would a manufacturing plant do if it had more chairs and beds made than it could sell? What would a manufacturing plant do if it had more knives and forks made than it could sell? And so forth with all manufacturing plants."

"You know what they would do? They would shut down the plant until they disposed of the surplus."

"That is exactly what the convention in New Orleans decided to do last Friday, August 21, and I wish to state to you that that convention held in New Orleans last Friday was the most important gathering that has ever been held in that state since Andrew Jackson went down there and used cotton bales for breastworks to stop the British Army."

"The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the convention: 'Resolved, That we petition the governors of the cotton states to immediately call extra sessions of the legislatures for the purpose of enacting laws prohibiting the planting of cotton in the United States for the year 1932, provided this legislation becomes effective when all of the states representing three-fourths of the cotton area of the United States enact similar legislation.'"

"I know the question that is in your mind when you finished reading this resolution. Is it constitutional?"

"All of the lawyers present agreed that it was the only remedy that was constitutional. They agreed that you cannot limit the acreage, but you could cut it out entirely as a quarantine measure. Several of the states have in previous years enacted legislation preventing the planting of certain farm crops as quarantine measures."

"Louisiana passed a law four years ago prohibiting the planting of cotton in certain areas of the state. The courts sustained this law on the ground of a quarantine measure. Numbers of states have restricted the planting of citrus fruit as a quarantine measure. These laws have been upheld as constitutional. Numbers of the states have enacted laws absolutely destroying certain crops as quarantine measures. This action has been upheld as constitutional."

"A quarantine measure prohibiting the planting of cotton for the year 1932 on account of insects and diseases is constitutional. Not only is it constitutional as a quarantine measure, but it is entirely legal. It will wipe out the surplus of 9,000,000 bales of cotton that hangs over our heads like the 'Sword of Damocles.'"

"It will do something else. It will put cotton to 20 and 25 cents per pound after it is enacted into law."

"I know another question that is in your mind: What will all of the cotton farmers in our land do in 1932 if they cannot plant cotton? Here's the answer: 'We import into Georgia every year millions of dollars worth of hay, grain, corn, meal, flour, corn, oats, rice and barley. We also import into Georgia millions of all our mixed feeds for mules, horses, cattle and hogs. We even import into Georgia a mixed dog food. We import into Georgia every year millions of dollars worth of butter, cheese and mixtures of cream from foreign states.'"

"Our people can work on producing these products and can produce them in Georgia in 1932."

"Another thing that our farmers can do in 1932: They can rise out of their holes and begin to work. They can fix the fences and build log cabins and smokehouses that are much needed."

"I know your next question: Where are you going to get the money to go on and do these things with? Here's the answer: 'You are not going to get any out of the cotton crop, and the price of seed that is selling at today. Enact into law the above resolution and put cotton to 20 cents per pound. Then this year's crop will bring the money into the state of Georgia to go on and carry along the plans for another year. Enact the above resolution into law and this year's cotton crop and cotton seed will bring three times as much money into the state of Georgia as this year's crop and next year's crop together, without the law.'"

"Enact the above resolution into law and you are answering the call that will stop crying children and tired mothers and despairing men all over this Southland of ours."

"Talk about constitutionality of this! All of the courts of the state and of the United States have uniformly upheld quarantine laws as constitutional."

"This resolution is also being founded on another law that has never been reversed. Read your Bible. It is founded on the law of Moses. What does it say in Leviticus? 'Plant your field six years and let it rest on the seventh. If you obey this law the fruits of the land will be plentiful and will extend over the eighth and into the ninth year.'"

"What does it say again, if you disobey this law? 'If you disobey this law, and the land will be barren and your land and the fruits of your field will be hoarded in a few places, and there will be starvation in the land of plenty.'"

"If you agree with me, write or wire Governor Richard B. Russell, Jr., Atlanta, to call an extra session of the legislature immediately."

"I want the dirt farmers to figure this matter out for themselves. I want the country preachers, who have the heaviest cross to bear, to think and pray over this plan."

"We need leaders in the present crisis—the kind of leaders that Teddy Roosevelt described—men with bark on them."

TOBACCO MARKETS FEWER IN NUMBER

VALDOSTA AGAIN HEARS RUMORS THAT BUYERS WILL REDUCE FORCE IN GEORGIA.

Valdosta, Ga., Aug. 30.—Although there is no official confirmation, it is believed that in 1932 Georgia will have at least less than half the tobacco markets which have been operated in the past.

It is known that a tremendous reduction in markets for the next season has been discussed by the officials of the tobacco buying concerns in this city during the 1931 season which is just coming to a close. Most of the officials of the seven or eight largest buying concerns are known to favor the elimination of a larger part of the Georgia markets from an economic standpoint. They believe that the Georgia crop hereafter can be better marketed in six or eight markets, covering a longer period for selling, than in twenty cities with a five weeks' marketing period.

The 1931 season has shown that a considerable number of the markets in an adverse season are a great loss to the buyers, as well as to the growers. The cost of keeping a crew of buyers on a market selling one or two million pounds of tobacco a season is as great as the force on a market where eight or ten million pounds are sold. The buying concerns say they would much rather eliminate the markets and pay the difference to the growers.

Although the present season was a disastrous one from a general standpoint, tobacco experts point to the fact that it has emphasized the premium prices paid for tobacco of quality hereafter prices for good tobacco are going to be higher. It is declared, while the price for the lower grades will be even lower than heretofore. With this advance information the grower of tobacco for 1932 may be assured that it is to his interest to seek toward the highest possible grade of tobacco and the elimination of the lower grades from the floor of the warehouse entirely.

A noted war-time aviator in Belgium absorbed with a lot of money. Still, according to the rules he accepted, he had to take the risk.

CHEVROLET FINDS BUSINESS BETTER

EIGHT MILLION CARS FROM FACTORY IS PROOF THAT FLOP HAS BEEN TURNED INTO A WINNER.

Flint, Mich., Sept. 1.—An antidote for talk of depression and seasonal stagnation in the automobile industry was uncovered here when the Chevrolet Motor Company turned out its 8,000,000th car in its less than twenty years of existence.

The "milestone" car came off the line of the local assembly plant shortly before noon of August 25, and brings the number of six cylinder cars built by this manufacturer, since the introduction of the larger type in 1929, to nearly three millions. Five million cars and trucks have been built in less than five full years.

No ceremonies attended the building of the car—a sport roadster—other than the customary handshaking between the workers who gradually take a finished form as it passed down the assembly line. C. E. Wetherall, newly-appointed general manufacturing manager, had the car brought to Detroit for exhibition to other company officials. Among those on hand to inspect it were W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager; H. J. Klingler, vice-president and general sales manager; J. W. Crawford, chief engineer, and others.

No exhibition tours or other special arrangements have been made for the car, which is now on its way, along with several thousand others built the same day for delivery to an unsuspecting owner somewhere in the region served by the Flint plant.

The car followed the seven millionth Chevrolet in a year and three months, and is the 2,845,938th six cylinder unit turned out by Chevrolet since the change-over from a four in 1929.

The seven millionth car was built May 28, 1930. In the period between this and the eighth millionth car, the products of the company forged to first place in passenger car registrations, and took the lead among all makes in production during recent months. Although organized in 1911, the company spent twelve years building the first million cars, then event having occurred in 1923. Thereafter the second and third million product followed at two year intervals, and the fourth million came off the line on January 11, 1928, less than a year after the third. Again in 1928, on September 8, another million was rounded out, and on June 25th, 1929, number 6,000,000 came off the line at Flint.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 31.—Arizona in awarding a contract for making of its automobile license tags, has specified that they should be made of Arizona copper, according to reports received here this week. That state, Georgia boosters pointed out, believes in protecting and encouraging its major industries.

It has been suggested that a few thousand automobile tags will not have much effect on the copper market, nor go very far toward using up the surplus, but as those promoting Georgia industries pointed out, the principle behind the plan is good. It is an example worthy of emulation by Georgia and other southern states. Industrial leaders here said. Every state, and Georgia in particular, it was shown, would do well to take all possible steps to stimulate its local enterprises.

Just now, for instance, Georgia should do its best to encourage the use of state-produced materials in road building and other construction work, particularly in view of the unprecedented building program that is now going on, state builders said. State, city and county authorities, it was asserted, should give preference to Georgia concerns.

RIVAL IS KILLED BY JEALOUS YOUTH

Summer was riding was driven away, and Darden was said to have gasped, "Well, you've got me," and toppled over dead.

Summer was apprehended at about three o'clock this morning by Deputy Sheriff Bell and carried to the Swainsboro jail.

Bascom Sumner, who is in the Dublin Clinic here, is painfully, but not seriously injured, and said that he hardly knows what happened. He said that when the shooting first started he did not know whether or not he was being shot at and ran as he was hit.

The shooting is alleged to be the result of a quarrel between the two young men about a girl both were "going with."

APPROPRIATION TO STUDY WOOD PULP

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 31.—Research work on the possibilities of using southern woods in the manufacture of white paper will start about January 1 in Georgia, according to T. G. Woolford, Atlanta, president of the Georgia Forestry Association. An appropriation of $20,000 annually for two years was recently made by the Georgia general assembly for this work with the understanding that $10,000 is to be contributed to the undertaking by the Chemical Foundation of New York.

Mr. Woolford says, a semi-commercial plant will be established and studies are to be made of various kinds of pine, black gum and other leading woods for making white newspaper and book paper.

No announcement has yet been made of the location of the plant. "As a result of the investigations to be made, Dr. Herty expects to develop definite information on commercial manufacture of paper to supplement what has already been determined in laboratories so that paper mills may be convinced of the practicability of making white paper from southern woods," says Mr. Woolford.

BULLOCH TIMES

PASSING THE BUCK

Everybody knows that something is wrong with the cotton situation, and everybody agrees that that something is overproduction.

Everybody agrees that something must be done about it, and everybody is attempting to pass the buck on that proposition.

Millions of farmers in the cotton producing states agree that there should be a reduction in cotton production; they agree that there is no profit in prices that now prevail and have prevailed during the past two years.

With the means of control absolutely within their own hands, the farmers are asking the governors of the different states to assume the legislative bodies to enact laws to do that which could be done without law. They are seeking to pass the buck to the state.

In the meantime the governors, in doubt as to the best mode of proceeding, are calling upon the president of the United States to convene congress for the purpose of doing the thing which the individuals could do themselves, but which they refuse to do.

The governors who thus act, also are attempting to pass the buck to the president. Hoover and his farm board, having gone the full limit of their reasonable resources, propose that the farmer shall save himself by destroying one-third of his crop already produced. So the buck-passing continues.

It is easy to be a pessimist. From all this confusion, we expect nothing tangible in the way of relief. There is hope, however, that cotton farmers will eventually do for themselves voluntarily the thing they ask the government to do—reduce their cotton crop. They are going to be compelled to do this by a law which is higher than a state or a nation can write on the books—the law of supply and demand.

The cotton farmers are agreed that cotton is being sold for less than the actual cost of production. It is, therefore, simply a question of how much longer the farmer will continue to squander his time and his money. Let it be hoped that the solution will be reached without any law of prohibition or compulsion. It seems unthinkable that there should need to be a law to prevent a farmer from doing a thing which his reason teaches him he cannot afford to do. If we make such a law, it will be but a short step till we may expect more drastic legislation—laws which compel the planting of specific crops and specific methods of cultivation and marketing.

When we reach that point we know as well as if it had already happened that a protest will come from the same people who are now demanding restriction of cotton production.

Every farmer in Bulloch county at this date has a legal right to plant all the cotton, cotton tobacco, wheat, potatoes, sugar cane and rice he cares to plant. There is no law which compels him to control his farming operations.

When he asks for a legal limit on his cotton crop, he may as well consent to the regulation of his other crops. He may be required to plant crops he does not now deem profitable. One line of regulation is as permissible as the other.

There is a fable of the frogs who desired a king, and chose a stork for this high and honorable position. The stork thus enthroned fed upon the frogs till they were sick and tired of their hargrain. Our farmers are asking for a stork to rule over them when they ask for a law to prohibit them from planting as much cotton—or as little—as their own best judgment dictates.

We often wonder how a high-powered salesman makes out when trying to convince his wife of something.

Two Brooklyn men traded wives and now each thinks the other is a swindler.

BACK TO THE COUNTRY

Industry, headed for more than a century toward centralization in cities, is likely to reinhabit the countryside, but the industrial evolution of the nation need not be viewed with despair, says Martin J. Lloyd, president of the Middle West Utilities Company, who points out that industry is retreating its steps and is again tending toward diffusion.

Just as power changed the decentralized industry of 1774 into a centralized by 1831, he declares power in 1931 appears to be changing industry back into a decentralized structure.

"Our life today, with its machinery, its mass production and its teeming cities, is an outgrowth of changes in the nature of all power resources. The life which it supplanted, the rural life, likewise was determined by the nature of the power resources of the time.

"The power supply of today is widely distributed. Electricity is available in any quantity at virtually every point on the map.

"Industry is not slow to recognize the advantages of decentralization in terms of lower costs and improved working conditions.

"The industry of the future is more likely to reinhabit the countryside; to possess all the advantages of power machinery without the disadvantages of congestion which have heretofore accompanied it."

OFFICE FARMERS

The most successful farmers are those who do their work on paper and on the public platform.

There are few men who write or speak who are not so thoroughly skilled as to discredit all the causes for the past, present and future failures on the farm.

There are splendid articles to be read and public addresses to be heard almost any day—if the farmer himself cared to waste the time to read or hear them. In one of our daily exchanges a few days ago there was published a most interesting scientific treatise on farming, quoting a "teacher" of business organization and commercial science, who has just returned from a 7,000-mile tour of the west.

This authority uttered an old truth when he said:

"The farmers of the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi are now left in the soup of financial depression with both wings of their 'middleboards' broken. His battle tools must be reconducted. His one-cylinder hay burner must be discarded and instead of wearing out his brogans in freshly plowed furrows, his longevity must be extended over pedals and levers amid the puttering explosion of gasoline."

Which is pretty logic except that it is false. The teacher has meant to tell the farmers of these southern states to quit plowing mules and get to plowing tractors; to quit raising mule feed and buy gasoline. This is the big trouble with the south at the very present moment—too much gasoline. Mules on the farm create a demand for grain and hay; tractors on the farm create a demand for more cash. More cash creates a demand for other crops besides grain and feed for live stock. More tractors and the live stock grower is put to the necessity of growing cotton or wheat or tobacco. More of these crops mean still lower prices for them. Fewer mules and horses on the farm will mean lessened demand for corn and oats and hay, therefore lower prices for these. Lower prices for any farm commodity means less ability to buy gasoline and farm tractors.

Too many farmers are in offices wearing pencils making figures.

Mrs. Genevieve Gordon, of London, had three complete winter costumes of different colors made for her Pomeranian dog, Peggy.

CAN WE COMPETE?

One of the problems the cotton farmer faces is the competition from new folds of cotton which are grown at less expense. In India, for instance, cotton is grown in increasing volume, and the cost of production is negligible.

Can we compete with India? When we think of that people, the only individual who comes to our mind is Mahatma Gandhi, the leader. If we follow him, the problem of living is already solved. Old Gandhi recently attended a conference in London wearing a goat skin about his loins as his only clothing. That certainly simplifies living expenses. And going a step or two further, Gandhi carried along as his daily bill of fare a couple of she goats to give him milk, his only diet. And that still simplifies the problem of living.

When we get to the point that we are willing to dress in the skin of a Billy goat and drink the milk of a couple of Nannies, it won't make much difference whether cotton is 5 or 20 cents.

Can we compete with India? Not until every farmer recognizes himself as the goat.

THE PROVERBS

Chapter 28

1. The wicked flee when no man pursueth; but the righteous are bold as a lion.
2. For the transgression of a land many are the princes thereof; but by a man of understanding and knowledge the state thereof shall be prolonged.

3. A poor man that oppresseth the poor is like a sweeping rain which leaveth no food.
4. They that forsake the law praise the wicked; but such as keep the law will contend with them.

5. Evil men understand not judgment; but they that seek the Lord understand all things.
6. Better is the poor that walketh in his uprightness, than he that is perverse in his ways, though he be rich.

7. Whoso keepeth the law is a wise man; but he that is a companion of riotous men shameth his father.
8. He that by usury and unjust gain increaseth his substance, he shall gather it for him that will pity the poor.

9. He that turneth away his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer shall be abomination.
10. Whoso causeth the righteous to go astray in an evil way, he shall fall himself into his own pit; but the upright shall have good things in possession forever.

11. The rich man is wise in his own conceit; but the poor that hath understanding shall be able to overthrow him.
12. When righteous men do rejoice, there is great glory; but when the wicked rise, they shall be hidden.

13. He that covereth his sins shall not prosper; but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy.
14. Happy is the man that feareth the Lord; but he that hardeneth his heart shall fall into mischief.

15. As a roaring lion, and a ranging bear; so is a wicked ruler over the poor people.
16. The prince that wanteth understanding is like a great oppressor; but he that hateth covetousness shall not be troubled.

17. A man that doeth violence to the blood of any person shall flee to the pit; he shall not stay there.
18. Whoso soweth in righteousness shall have a sure harvest.
19. He that soweth in righteousness shall have a sure harvest, and his seed shall not be blighted.

20. A faithful man shall abound with blessings; but he that maketh himself rich by dishonesty shall be in want.
21. To have respect of persons is not good; for a piece of bread that man shall eat, and he shall not be satisfied.
22. He that hateth to be rich hath an evil eye, and considereth not that poverty shall come upon him.
23. He that rebuketh a man, afterwards shall find more favour than he that flattereth with the tongue.

24. Whoso robbeth his father of his mother, and saith, It is no transgression; the same is the companion of a destroyer.
25. He that is of a proud heart stretcheth up strife; but he that putteth his trust in the Lord shall be made fat.
26. He that trusteth in his own heart is a fool; but whoso walketh wisely, he shall be delivered.
27. He that giveth unto the poor shall not lack; but he that hideth his eyes shall have many a curse.
28. When the wicked rise, men hide themselves; but when they perish, the righteous increase.

Highest Corn Yield
Made by Dixie Farmer

Setting new records is getting to be a habit with W. Y. Thrash, well known farmer of Walnut Grove, Miss.

Two years ago he averaged on a three-acre field 181 bushels of shelled corn an acre. Last year he increased the yield to 193 bushels. As far as is known, these records are the highest yields made in the country during the last two years.

Mr. Thrash's spectacular yields. An important feature of his program has been two side-dressings with Chilean nitrate of soda, the first when the corn is knee-high and the second about three weeks later, depending on the season.

Both of his records were completed in the Mississippi Better Corn Production Contest.

Heavy Cotton Yields
Mean Low-Unit Costs

The rock bottom cost of producing a pound of seed cotton last year was probably 24 cents. At least, that is what it cost the winners of cotton-growing contests in nine Southern States.

An inspection of their records shows that every one of the winners, 22 in all, side-dressed their crop. The average application was 200 pounds of Chilean nitrate per acre, applied about 45 days after planting.

It is sometimes said that while the wheat crop is growing, contests make high acre yields, their cost of unit production is abnormally high. This is far from being the case. In fact, as shown by these records, the cost of growing a pound of cotton was reduced as the yield was increased.

LAW ABOLISHES COUNTY WARDEN

Hunters, fishers and trappers must hereafter obtain their licenses from the court of ordinary in their respective counties.

A bill passed by the general assembly during the session just closed not only abolishes the county game warden, but centralizes the license bureau. Judge A. E. Temple, of Bulloch county court of ordinary, has received his instructions in a letter from Peter S. Twitty, state commissioner of game and fish.

The dove season opens September 1; the squirrel season October 1, and the quail season November 15. Hunters who desire to hunt only in Bulloch county must pay a fee of $1. Hunting in the entire state will cost $3.25. Non-residents hunting in a single county must pay $10, and non-residents hunting throughout the state must pay $25.

"Dixie Crystals" SUGAR

Reno is going after the divorce business, having passed a six weeks' residence law. Several other states are coming on. The rivalry seems to be a matter of time of residence, rather than the price-cutting that prevails in other lines. Someone suggested mail-order divorces, so that a letter reading: "Enclosed find $50.00 in stamps, for which please separate me from my husband, as advertised," will do the trick.

BE THAT AS IT MAY—Once you use "DIXIE CRYSTALS" SUGAR you will be divorced from all other brands. Remember that "DIXIE CRYSTALS" SUGAR is refined in Savannah by the Savannah Sugar Refinery, with American labor, under American sanitation laws, packed in cotton bags and you will find it advertised as the "Sweetest Sugar Ever Sold."

career from childhood to the present moment, his eyes were wet and his voice broke as he spoke of the kindness which had come to him from the hands of friends.

Reaching his formal acceptance he spoke from prepared manuscript.

"The honor that has come to me is one that until three weeks ago I had not hoped to attain," he said.

"Not accepting the nomination, I wish to state that it shall be my purpose to serve the people of the whole district and our state as ably as human limitations will permit. I shall strive to do those things that will meet with approval of our people and leave undone the things that would tend to degrade and discredit us. While I believe in the doctrine that to the victor belong the spoils yet as nearly as possible I want to be fair and of service to friend and foe alike."

Following the convention, Mr. Parker was host to the delegates and visitors at lunch at the Jackson Hotel.

The announcement of the committee from the counties of the district is as follows: Bryan, T. O. Jones; Burke, Hugh M. Blount and A. Jones; Bulloch, S. W. Lewis and J. B. J. Barney Averitt; Candler, A. C. Cohen and John Z. Ryan; Effingham, E. H. Robertson; Evans, J. Saxton; Daniels, Jenkins, Miss Jennie Dawson; Liberty, J. B. Fraser; Long, J. Lawton Howard; McIntosh, T. M. Middleton Davis; Screven, J. T. Evans and J. Spencer Powell; Tattnall, Dr. S. O. Edwards. With reference to the five new counties which will be included in the district under the recently enacted redistricting measure, Emanuel, Montgomery, Treutlen, Toombs and Wheeler, no appointments were made, but will be at a later date. It was informally stated that Judge Saxton Daniels will be chairman and Mrs. J. Barney Averitt, secretary of the new congressional committee.

On Thursday evening the members of the Epworth League were entertained at a Gypsy party in the League social room of the Methodist church. Vivid colored costumes added charm to the occasion. At the conclusion of the game feed tea and sandwiches were served by Miss Carolyn Lee, Mildred Lewis and Louise Clark. About fifty guests enjoyed the occasion.

DONALDSON DIES AT HANDS OF JONES

INTERMENT AT EAST SIDE CEMETERY FRIDAY MORNING FROM THE FAMILY HOME.

The funeral of J. Gordon Donaldson, slain last night near Marlow by a man named Jones, will be held at the home of J. H. Donaldson, the father, at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning, and interment will follow in East Side cemetery.

Exact details of the tragedy which cost Gordon Donaldson his life have not been learned here. Two brothers, Charlie and Douglas, in company with Sheriff Tillman, learned of the affair and went to the body shortly after midnight, returning at 6 o'clock.

According to information obtained, Gordon Donaldson, in company with two other men, late in the afternoon went to the home of a man named Zitrouer. The other men left shortly, but Donaldson remained. Zitrouer's son-in-law, named Jones, who lives about a mile away, probably visiting at the home, became engaged in a dispute with Donaldson, which dispute was drawn out over a period of two hours or more. Two shots were fired by Jones, about twenty minutes apart. The first apparently missed the mark. The last shot about ten o'clock last night, fired through a window at Donaldson in the yard, struck him in the face and neck, one shot touching a vital spot in the throat. A shotgun was used and the shot was said to have been No. 6. Several minutes after the last firing, Jones and another man went out to search for Donaldson and found him dead in the field a short distance from the house. Jones, who admitted the shooting was carried to jail at Springfield.

Donaldson had several years ago been employed at a sawmill in the vicinity and there formed acquaintance with the persons at whose home he was slain. In recent months Donaldson had been employed as a convict guard in Washington county.

Donaldson was born and reared in Statesboro and is of prominent family connection. He is survived by his father, J. H. Donaldson; two brothers, Charlie and Douglas, and three sisters, Mrs. Don Brannen, Mrs. Cliff Bradley and Mrs. Glenn Jennings, all of Statesboro. He was 39 years of age.

Louis Massigole, of Brussels, was arrested for stealing his wife's diamonds to pay his debts.

Miss Laura Skelton and Roy V. Lester, who met when their autos collided in a fog in Chicago, were married two months later.

"After the birth of my baby, I was thin, nervous and run-down. From the first bottle of Vinol I improved. It gave me new strength and I gained weight."—Mrs. M. Gunstone.

Vinol restores just the elements of iron, lime and cod liver peptone needed by thin, weak, nervous women and men. Even the FIRST bottle builds up strength, makes new red blood, pep up appetite and brings sound sleep. "Olnol" today! W. H. Ellis Co., Drugists.
